

BIO / SHAUN BREESE / OWNER, BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR

“Cookie Monster” was actually Shaun Breese’s childhood nickname, so it’s no wonder she became the co-owner and business development director of her own organic bake shop in Phoenix, Ariz. – Urban Cookies and OllieCake – specializing in gourmet cookies and cupcakes.

Nearly a native of Phoenix, Breese graduated from Arizona State University with a journalism degree and quickly settled into a marketing and public relations career before dreaming up the idea for Urban Cookies over Sunday breakfast with her husband, Brady. Although Brady developed the recipes for the company, the company’s signature cookie, the dark chocolate walnut, Breese created and used to bake for friends and family.

Breese now oversees business development for the company, which includes sales, marketing, operations and community relations.

Breese resides in Phoenix with her husband, Brady and their two-year-old son, Oliver and dog, Deacon.
